

Greenlight Communities Announces Sponsorship of Arizona Institute of Architects

Greenlight Communities, an established Scottsdale-based developer specializing in attainable rental housing across Arizona, proudly announces its sponsorship of the Arizona Institute of Architects (AIA). This partnership, alongside many other organizations, underscores Greenlight's commitment to supporting architectural excellence and innovation across Arizona.

The Arizona Institute of Architects is dedicated to advancing the profession of architecture through advocacy, education, and community outreach. AIA provides valuable resources and networking opportunities for architects, designers, and allied professionals, fostering collaboration and knowledge-sharing within the industry.

"We are thrilled to support the Arizona Institute of Architects through this sponsorship," said Dan Richards, Partner at Greenlight. "AIA plays a crucial role in promoting best practices in architecture and design, which aligns closely with Greenlight's mission of providing Arizona communities with well-designed high-quality rental housing."

Richard Jesen, a partner at Worksbureau, recommended Greenlight's sponsorship of AIA. Worksbureau, a trusted partner of Greenlight on Cabana projects, emphasizes the importance of community engagement and professional development in architecture.

Greenlight looks forward to leveraging this partnership to further support architectural advancements and foster meaningful connections within the Arizona design community.

About Greenlight: Greenlight Communities believes that everyone deserves to live in a home they can afford in a community that they love. By disrupting the traditional apartment model, Greenlight is developing attainable rental housing that meets that needs of today's budget-conscious renter. Combining modern design with technological advancements in construction and operations, Greenlight's Cabana and Streamliner apartment brands provide studio, one and two-bedroom units in well-located communities through metro Phoenix. More than 4,000 units are currently under construction or in planning and development.

About Arizona Institute of Architects (AIA): What started as 13 architects in a New York office in 1857 has grown to become the largest, most influential network of architects and design professionals in 2023. Our 98,000+ global member community shares a passion for design, a desire to change the world, and a commitment to the highest standards of practice. We don't follow the standards, we set them. We're a force for positive change. And together, with our members, we're designing a better world, for everyone.